Spring Season Precautions With Gasoline

(By A. E. Bridges, Alberta Fire Commissioner)

Did you fill up your gasoline tank today? This is so common that most people do little more than watch the gauge, check the gallons and cost figures on the pump, then pay for it. But, you will recall that the fuel is pumped from an underground supply tank and it is delivered into your car tank through a safety nozzle handled by a trained attendant.

Perhaps you have a power lawnmower or a motor boat that burns gasoline. Specifically we are making a point of the fact that the individual finds several uses for gasoline. Next comes the question—what have you provided to contain your immediate supply of gasoline? Where did you store it? Have you full knowledge of the properties of gasoline? Can you control it or will it damage or destroy you?

This is where we lost most of our readers. They fear there is some caution or warning coming—but here it is.

- Never place gasoline into an open bucket or can.
- Never transfer gasoline from a container close to any flame or spark—that is, be sure to keep lighters, matches, cigarettes and pipes out!
- Always use a metal can painted red with a clear label indicating the contents are gasoline and that there is DANGER!
- Never bring gasoline into a dwelling or apartment.
- Never use gasoline as a cleaning solvent.
- If you ever spill gasoline on your clothing, stay outside or get outside and remove the gasoline soaked clothing.

Well, gasoline is manufactured to explode. You cannot move fast enough to escape a sudden flash fire involving it. The heat of a gasoline fire will set clothing on fire and burn flesh in an instant. Eight deaths and 35 injuries were caused from accidents with gasoline last year in Alberta.

It only takes one slip when handling gasoline and you may never have another chance to be careful.

Continuing Prof. Education For Teachers

The Department of Extension and the Faculty of Education of The University of Alberta are offering three courses this summer designed to provide an opportunity for teachers to become familiar with recent developments, — without the pressure of examination and credits. During the period July 2 to July 12, courses are being offered in mathematics (senior and junior high school levels), social studies and elementary science. Due to popular demand, the elementary science course will be repeated July 22 to August 2.

Registrations will be accepted by the Department of Extension, Corbett Hall, 82 Ave., and 112 St., Edmonton, until June 1, 1968.

The social studies course will explore the possibilities of the use of the novel for teaching social studies concepts, and for developing the powers of observation, inference and the formulation and testing of hypotheses, for teachers of junior and high school level.

For further information write to the Department of Extension, The University of Alberta, Edmonton, Alberta.

Mrs. H. H. Bancroft,
Extension Assistant.

Changes Made In Game Act Regulations

American hunters will again be invited to hunt in Northern Alberta this fall, announced the Hon. H. A. Ruste, Minister of Alberta's Department of Lands and Forest.

However, a number of changes have been made to the Game Act Regulations which will overcome a number of problems which occurred during last year's season. Non-resident fees has been increased up to $50.00, up from $25 a year ago. The hunters will also be required to pay an additional $2.00 for their Wildlife Certificates. The licence and certificates are payable in Canadian Funds.

The special moose season for non-residents will entitle the licence holder to hunt and kill one more either male or female, between September 2nd and December 21st, in Big Game Zone One. Big Game Zone One comprises most of the portion of the Province of Alberta lying north of Cold Lake, Lac La Biche, Athabasca, Smith, Fort Assiniboine, Whitecourt, and the Berland River, excluding the Grande Prairie and Peace River Block.

Non-residents will not be permitted to hunt in the special area unless accompanied by a licensed guide. The department's Fish and Wildlife Division is carrying out a program of obtaining and licensing more guides. A new 'B' Class Guide's Licence has been established to assist the economy of the northern part of the province and to provide sufficient guides for the visiting non-resident hunters.

It is expected that non-resident hunters will finalize arrangements for a guide prior to coming to Alberta to hunt as it is not the policy of the department to recommend any particular guide. A list of guides is in preparation and will be made available to all persons requesting the publication. The licensed guides will be allowed to act for only two hunters at one time. Last year non-residents were allowed to hunt with a resident or after signing an affidavit by themselves.

Non-resident hunters may purchase their licences from any Fish and Wildlife office in the province during regular office hours, Monday through Friday. No licences will be available outside of these hours.

Hunters may, if desired, have a guide purchase a licence provided the hunter furnishes him with information as to: Name, Address, Height, Weight, Sex and Age. In addition, licences may be purchased by mail provided that a minimum of 15 days be allowed for delivery.

Sunday hunting of big game or game birds is prohibited. Fishing is allowed. It is also unlawful to hunt or kill any animal or bird between one-half hour before sunrise and one-half hour after sunset.

No trophy fees are charged over or above regular licence fees on any animal or bird hunted and killed in Alberta. It is also against the law to export in any way any animal or bird or part thereof beyond the boundaries of Alberta, without having first obtained an Export Permit.

These permits are issued free of charge and may be obtained at any Fish and Wildlife office during regular office hours, Monday thru Friday.

Every person hunting game in the forested areas of Alberta, — which includes Big Game Zone One—must, while hunting, be clothed in a long sleeved coat or garment completely scarlet or blaze orange in color and a cap or other head-dress of the same color. The blaze orange garments were brought into the Act this year.

Advertising...

Modern advertising is a necessity to hold and build business. Be proud of your business, of the goods you have to sell, of the services you have to offer in your particular line. Show the progressive spirit and the desire to serve by advertising. Do not hide your light under a bushel — proclaim far and wide who you are and what you have to sell and where your place of business is, for public memory is short, and advertising is a powerful aid to all types of businesses. Moreover, people as a general rule shop where they are invited.

Antihistamines Don't Cure Colds

While antihistamines can help to relieve the annoying symptoms of a cold, they have nothing to do with curing a cold. The Canadian Medical Association advises that general measures such as warmth, sufficient rest and sleep, and the avoidance of exposure will do much more to help the patient while the cold runs its course.

People who use antihistamines should remember two important points. 1—It might not be a cold they are treating. Many other conditions can cause the same symptoms as the common cold, including allergies, measles and other infectious diseases.

2—Antihistamines have side-effects. They cause drowsiness. Pilots are not allowed to use antihistamines while flying, and drivers of automobiles should be extra careful if they are taking antihistamines. Sometimes antihistamines will upset the stomach or bowel, and occasionally will cause an allergy.

The CMA reports that some people find that paper tissues aggravate colds. While rare, it is possible for the tissue fibres, certain dyes or chemicals used in the manufacture of tissues, to irritate some people. Most of these people discover this for themselves, and use cloth handkerchiefs.

Heart Strain

The heart muscle and the blood vessels of a young man or woman can respond to a tremendous range of demand. However, because a few young people have damage to their hearts from congenital abnormalities or rheumatic heart disease, athletes are examined prior to or to extremely strenuous exercises.

The Canadian Medical Association reports that young people very rarely, suffer from heart strain. It seems that the heart muscles show some deterioration after age 30, leaving it with less reserve. What reserve is left seems to benefit from constant training. Thus the man of 65 who decides to shovel the snow from his driveway, or push a car, or run quickly for a bus, is probably unwise. There is additional danger to the older man if he had had a recent respiratory infection which causes added strain.

The lesson to be learned about heart strain is that the older person should not subject his heart to sudden and unusual strain, like wrestling or shovelling snow. For those over 40, the CMA recommends gentler exercise such as walking, playing golf, skating, or skiing.

The Homemaker

(Miss Patricia L. Peters, District Home Economist, Box 40, Claresholm, Alberta, Phone 236-3242. Cardston, Phone 653-3462. Pincher Creek, Phone 627-3130 or 627-4022.)

Careers in Home Economics, Textiles and Clothing:

Positions in the field of Textiles and Clothing can be divided into four major groups—technical fashion and designing, and public relations and publicity.

In the technical line, graduates in home economics work in retail stores, on magazine staffs and with private testing organizations as laboratory technicians. Merchandise is tested to see how it performs and how it can be improved. Fabrics are evaluated to determine their durability and serviceability.

Retailing offers many opportunities to home economists; however, one must be willing to start at the bottom. In retailing and merchandising the phases of involvement include comparison shopping, fashion styling, labelling, sales promotion and advertising.

In the field of fashion and designing there are many ups and downs and a heavy job turnover. Positions are available with pattern companies in departments of publicity, sales promotion, instruction writing, fashion shows, fashion reporting, fashion editing and photography.

Manufacturers also employ home economists to present their product to the public and interpret consumer wants and needs to industry. In public relations work, therefore, one promotes. The graduate must be prepared to be involved in public speaking, demonstrating, preparing exhibits and displays.

Other phases of work may include the preparation of booklets and advertising material.

Many girls are attracted by the glamorous appeal of dress design and fashion retailing. Top positions in these fields are few and usually gained slowly through several years of experience during which every part of the industry served is learned first-hand.

While a degree in Home Economics may give a good background, opportunities in the areas of design and textiles will necessitate further studies beyond the fourth year program. These studies may be pursued at the graduate level at various universities or additional studies at professional schools such as the Art Institute of Chicago, Traphagen School of Fashion or the Chamberlain School of Retailing. Work could be carried out by free-lancing, or by becoming a member of the staff of a magazine or newspaper, a store, a pattern company or a garment manufacturer.

Alberta Heart Foundation Reaches Objective

The semi-annual meeting of the Board of Directors of the Alberta Heart Foundation was held today at the El Rancho in the City of Lethbridge.

C. Sheldon Buckle, CLU, 1968 Provincial Campaign Chairman, announced that the provincial objective of $225,000, due to the magnificent generosity of the public, was reached on May 3rd. The Fund will remain open for any further donations until June 30th.

The Directors voted $217,965 to be spent on research grants in the province of Alberta.

Additional funds were voted in support of the Canadian Heart Foundation national research program.

Why Leave Them Lying Around?

Spring cleaning time should be poison-proofing time in homes where young children live. More than 2,500,000 accidental, but avoidable, poisonings happen in Canada each year, most of them involving our youngest citizens. Bright labels, candy-coated pills or just candy-shaped tablets appeal to youngsters who have no knowledge of drugs.

Why leave them lying around? Common household cleaning products — so easy to swallow, but so hard to digest — head the list of materials which poison children; headache pills run a close second.

When you are cleaning house, at any time of the year, keep these ideas in mind, says the National Safety League of Canada: —Keep household chemical products and drugs out of the reach of children.

—Clean out the medicine cabinet regularly; dispose of drugs which have served their purpose (pills or liquid prescriptions); by flushing them down the drain.

—Don't put old drugs in the garbage, where children might find them.

In short, when cleaning up the house, dispose of all unnecessary poisons — they have no place in the life of a child.

Don't Be a Lemming

The Victoria Day week-end exodus is rarely matched in nature except by the Arctic Lemmings' frenzied rush to the sea. By the hundreds of thousands these small mouse-like rodents gather in armies, always migrate downhill to the sea and throw themselves in —population control by a voluntary act of suicide.

We wonder if this streak of self-destruction is also inherited by a dangerous minority of the vacationing crowd.

He is the type of lemming to fortify himself well with a "few for the road". If and when he arrives at the cottage he can rest secure in the knowledge that he left a trail of terrified motorists in his wake.

Within minutes he's got the old boat launched. The one that has been sitting in the boat house all winter. The one he forgot to inspect carefully to see that both boat and motor were in good repair.

A couple of more "belts" to slake his thirst. He lurches behind the wheel, plants his graying-haired wife by his side and the kids in the back. A hearty bellow, "Ship Ahoy!" and he plows 75-horse propelled into the wild blue yonder. The lifejackets he must provide for every passenger lie hopelessly water-logged under the boat house, where the kids threw them last fall.

On the off chance that Somebody Up There Likes Him, he just might survive to have the same fun every week-end this summer. But don't count on it!

There were 43 drownings in Alberta in 1967.

Your Canadian Red Cross urges you—don't be a Lemming! This summer—Think, don't sink!

A dying man told his wife, "I want association members to be my pallbearers." "Why?" she enquired. "You never belonged to the organization." "They've carried me this far," he replied, "they might as well carry me the rest of the way."
